Please note:

When a search of cases from Philadelphia County is conducted using "other criteria", the search results will include all applicable Philadelphia Municipal Court (MC) and Court of Common Pleas (CP) cases. In Philadelphia County, MC has initial jurisdiction in processing every criminal arrest in Philadelphia and conducts misdemeanor trials and preliminary hearings for all felony cases. Therefore, some cases, such as those involving felony offenses, will initially be filed in MC but will be adjudicated in the CP. Thus, some cases will have both a MC and CP docket number that concern the same incident or offenses.

To determine if a MC case has a related CP case (or vice versa), please review the "cross court docket number" field appearing on the web docket sheet (see page one in the case information section). Specifically, if a MC case has a corresponding CP case, the CP case docket number will most often be set forth as the "cross court docket number" on the web docket sheet for the MC. Similarly, if a CP case has a corresponding MC case, the MC case docket number will most often be set forth as the "cross court docket number" on the CP case web docket sheet.

Click here to view information concerning the 'number' and 'oldest year' of cases migrated from county legacy systems to CPCMS. While not all cases were migrated, this chart will provide a general guideline as to the age of a criminal case available from the Court of Common Pleas Web Docket Sheet.

Magisterial District Courts Docket Sheets

On April 1, 2012, AOPC implemented a new protocol in its Magisterial District Judge System to ensure that when the official paper case records of an individual case have been or should have been destroyed in accordance with the Record Retention and Disposition Schedule with Guidelines ("Schedule") promulgated pursuant to Pa.R.J.A. No. 507 that the public web docket sheet for the case will no longer be accessible. These actions are consistent with the Schedule's purpose to implement record disposition consistently throughout the UJS. Therefore, destruction of the official record pursuant to the Schedule will also result in the electronic case record information regarding the record no longer being accessible to the public.

Recent entries made in the court filing offices may not be immediately reflected on these docket sheets. Neither the courts of the Unified Judicial System of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania nor the Administrative Office of Pennsylvania Courts assumes any liability for inaccurate or delayed data, errors or omissions on these docket sheets. Section 9183.

MDJ docket sheets are available for specific docket types (see Participant Name search type). If you want to search by docket number, you will first need to fill out the county and court boxes. If you do not have that information, you cannot search by docket number.

When a search of cases from Philadelphia County is conducted using "other criteria", the search results will include all applicable Philadelphia Municipal Court (MC) and Court of Common Pleas (CP) cases. In Philadelphia County, MC has initial jurisdiction in processing every criminal arrest in Philadelphia and conducts misdemeanor trials and preliminary hearings for all felony cases. Therefore, some cases, such as those involving felony offenses, will initially be filed in MC but will be adjudicated in the CP. Thus, some cases will have both a MC and CP docket number that concern the same incident or offenses.

To determine if a MC case has a related CP case (or vice versa), please review the "cross court docket number" field appearing on the web docket sheet (see page one in the case information section). Specifically, if a MC case has a corresponding CP case, the CP case docket number will most often be set forth as the "cross court docket number" on the web docket sheet for the MC. Similarly, if a CP case has a corresponding MC case, the MC case docket number will most often be set forth as the "cross court docket number" on the CP case web docket sheet.

Magisterial District Courts Docket Sheets

On April 1, 2012, AOPC implemented a new protocol in its Magisterial District Judge System to ensure that when the official paper case records of an individual case have been or should have been destroyed in accordance with the Record Retention and Disposition Schedule with Guidelines ("Schedule") promulgated pursuant to Pa.R.J.A. No. 507 that the public web docket sheet for the case will no longer be accessible. These actions are consistent with the Schedule's purpose to implement record disposition consistently throughout the UJS. Therefore, destruction of the official record pursuant to the Schedule will also result in the electronic case record information regarding the record no longer being accessible to the public.
